About

Meena is a 35 year old homemaker who regularly visits a goverment hospitals for her healthcare needs and also accompnies family members during hospitals visits. She is comfortable with basic smartphone features such as calling,messaging and voice search, but she finds complex digital applications difficult to navigate. She prefers simple interfaces, familiar language and clear instructions. During hospital visits, she often faces long waiting times and has to repeatedly provide her personal and medical informations. She is concerned about whether her previous records are available to the doctor and wants a faster, more organized healthcare experience.
